Unemployment Is Beyond Most Municipalities Few Escape When Loire River Ship Turns Over And Sinks In Biscay Bay

Senator Robertson Given Gloomy View Of B.C. Conditions

Federal Minister of Labor Opens Conference With Municipal Heads of Province; Proceedings at Parliament Buildings Featured by Advice to Form Labor Camps, Issue Billion-dollar Loan, Increase Coal Export Bonus and Construct Peace River Rail Outlet; Need to Relieve Municipalities Stressed

Many municipalities of British Columbia will be unable to cope with unemployment next winter on any such terms as those in effect last year, Senator Gordon Robertson, Minister of Labor for the Dominion, was this morning assured by practically every mayor and reeve who spoke at the first session of his conference with civic representatives, designed to formulate practical measures for amelioration of unemployment next winter. The meeting was held at the Parliament Buildings, with Premier Tolmie in the chair.

The conference adjourned at 1 o'clock after Col. C. W. Wilson had asserted that the proposed federal bonus of twenty-five cents a ton on export and bunker coal was too small to be of benefit to inland mines. A bonus of $1 would possibly double to 200,000 tons the island export trade the Colonel said.

One of the striking suggestions advanced was by Mayor John Kendall, Port Alberni, who advocated issuance of a billion dollars of paper money, to be expended by the federal government in construction of highways and public works.

Many of the delegates supported the creation of labor camps for single men, with a wage of $10 a month to avoid taking men from other lines of industry.

Opening the conference Premier Tolmie said: "We have gathered to discuss unemployment in B.C. from all angles. Senator Robertson has brought with him from Ottawa experts to aid. We all know what has been done in recent months and are now better equipped to deal with the situation, including coal."

The Premier believed matters in the Dominion had recently grown brighter. Crop outlook was in Ontario and better in Manitoba, while in Alberta recent rains had brought benefit.

Senator Robertson admitted Ottawa had felt apprehension, particularly because of reports of drought in the prairie provinces. Recent rains had changed matters and only in Saskatchewan were crops damaged to the extent that only feed would be harvested.

"Our purpose in coming west is to ascertain the real conditions. Last fall steps were taken whereby co-operative effort by municipalities, provinces and the federal government placed $71,000,000 within the reach of the people, an amount not otherwise available," he said. In British Columbia $3,500,000 had been expended under the plan, and this province had received a little more than its share of the federal grant of $20,000,000, because men gravitated to the Pacific Coast. In British Columbia the Dominion had (Concluded on Page 2).

FRENCH SHIP'S END DESCRIBED BY SURVIVORS

Swimmers Who Got Away From St. Philibert Picked Up By Steamer

Canadian Press

St. Nazaire, France, June 15.—Daniel Duvier, a twenty-year-old carpenter, sat over a steaming bowl of coffee in a borrowed suit of clothes here to-day and told the story of the sinking of the excursion steamer St. Philibert.

He is one of the eight persons who escaped when more than 440 picknickers were drowned.

"There were 467 of us when the boat started from Nantes at 8 o'clock yesterday morning," he said. "She rolled badly in the bay, and when we got to the island (of Noirmoutier) everybody forgot the bad weather and we had a happy time."

"We put out on the way home at 5 p.m. The weather was very bad and the wind was terrific. It was about 6 o'clock, I think, when tremendous waves piled up in the bay, and the boat began to roll dreadfully. The wind was hitting us from the port side, and it seemed to me everybody decided all at once to get over on the other side. We rushed over together."

"The ship keeled over from our weight. Several big waves came about one after another. I am a good swimmer, and when I felt the ship turning under my feet I dived into the water."

"When I shot into the air I saw to my horror that the keep of the boat was above the surface. She had turned completely over. The ship disappeared, carrying everyone down with her."

"I began to swim. It seemed dark as midnight, but I ran into a lifeboat to which several other passengers already were clinging. I grabbed the side of the boat, but it was pitching and tossing so I could not climb in. It neither could the others, but we held on with our hands and feet. The boat stayed about until the steamer Borgie came to our rescue."

"It was none too soon, for we were utterly exhausted. The boat was unable to right itself. It turned completely over and the human cargo spilled into the water."

"The ordinarily calm waters of the bay became a maelstrom of struggling human beings. A few had managed to don lifebelts at the first hint of danger, and a few others clambered into a lifeboat. The great majority sank without a chance for life, their cries rising drowning out the howls of the storm. A strong current evidently carried some of bodies out to sea."

"The survivors were picked up by the steamer Borgie, which was unable to right itself. It turned completely over and the human cargo spilled into the water."

NO CANADIAN HAS $100,000 YEARLY INCOME

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 15.—No person in Canada has a taxable income of $100,000 annually, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Liberal, Melville, Sask., was informed in the Commons this afternoon when Hon. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, tabled an answer to a question that had been asked by the former Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Motherwell had asked what amount of income tax was payable on a taxable income of $100,000 per annum under the provisions of the Dunning budget of last year, and what amount was so payable under the budget presented to the House two weeks ago by Premier Bennett.

"As there is not and has not been for years in Canada an individual taxpayer with a taxable income of $100,000 per annum," read Mr. Ryckman's answer, "it is assumed the question refers to income of corporations."

On that basis Mr. Ryckman said that under the Dunning budget a corporation with a taxable income of $100,000 would pay $75,000, while under that of Mr. Bennett the corporation would pay $69,000.

BRAVE words, bravely spoken. Boyish shoulders, braced to lift burden of responsibility beyond their strength.

It is a tragedy so common as to create but little comment... children starting out to fight life's battles, unequipped.

Have you thought of the story behind the little figure that urges you to buy a paper... that begs the chance to run an errand, for a few sorely-needed coppers? Have you imagined the plans that may have been made for his education—the hopes, held in happier days, for his future?

And have you considered what would be the fate of your boy... your girl... should you be taken away?

For the burden you drop must be carried on... on the frail shoulders of your children.

Or on the broad, sustaining back of Life Insurance. Make your decision today... and protect, with adequate Life Insurance, the future you would wish for those you love. Any Life Insurance representative will be pleased to discuss the details with you.

TEST VOTE IN BRITISH COMMONS SET FOR TUESDAY

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, June 15.—The political crisis is slipping away. The danger of a split between the Labor and Liberal votes in the Commons to-morrow evening, with the possibility of a government defeat, is not yet over, it is true. The conversations between Labor and Liberal leaders who spent the week-end trying to find a compromise on the Labor proposal to tax land values to-day had not yielded the expected result, but there were to be no more conversations—and a general election is something neither Labor nor Liberal want at the present time.

While the latest Labor-Liberal battle seems to be coming out, political developments are in the air. The London Daily Express to-day said it understood the Marquis of Salisbury, Conservative leader in the House of Lords, had resigned the leadership. The London Daily Herald, Labor, foreboded the resignation of Lord Beauchamp as Liberal leader in the Second Chamber.

And this evening the inaugural meeting of the new Socialist Party, the Socialist Society for Inquiry and Propaganda—will be held. That body aims at filling the gap in the Labor Party which the old Independent Labour Party proper, Premier MacDonald said, had left. The new party, who were among the earliest and most active workers in the I.L.P., resigned membership some time ago.

The above dispatch was written before the defeat of the MacDonald government in the Commons to-day by 229 to 200, the subsequent announcement the ministry would not resign, and the later victory of the government by a majority of fourteen on a closure motion.

Body of Japanese Fisherman Found In Drifting Launch

Uchuellet, June 15.—T. Nakamichi, resident of Uchuellet for many years and a well-known fisherman, passed away last week while at sea in his boat. His body was discovered by S. Sakai, another fisherman.

Sakai sighted a boat drifting off Uchuellet Island. There was considerable westerly swell, and the craft appeared to be in grave danger. Investigating, he found her crew of one had passed away.

Taking the body aboard his boat, Sakai anchored the other launch and came to Uchuellet to report the fatality. The body was recovered and returned to the launch.

A coroner's jury found that death was due to natural causes.

Champagne No Longer King's Toast

Washington, D.C., June 15.—The British Embassy gave a big stag dinner recently in honor of the sixtieth birthday of King George. Sir Ronald Lindsay, His Majesty's Ambassador, stood up, raised a glass of port, declared:

"Gentlemen... I give you the King!"

The wine-glasses were drained. A few moments later, Sir Ronald popped up again:

"I give you the President."

More port disappeared down thirsty throats.

Why port, some wondered? Why not champagne? Usually, King George's health is toasted in bumper of champagne.

Most Americans think that Britishers smash their wine-glasses against the floor after a toast to the King. Not in these times of depression.

The wine-glasses will be raised again June 23, when the Prince of Wales (born 1894) has a birthday.

E. T. CHESLEY OF TORONTO DIES

Toronto, June 15.—Edward T. Chesley, well-known newspaperman, died suddenly of acute indigestion at the summer home of a friend near Bobcaygeon yesterday. Mr. Chesley was in charge of publicity of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and had previously held the posts of associate farm editor of the Toronto Globe, editor of publications of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and associate editor of The Ontario Farmer.

PRANK CAUSES THREE DEATHS

Toronto, June 15.—A special dispatch from Lansing, Michigan, published in The Toronto Globe this morning said:

"The playful prank of a man who attempted to duck his young niece and nephew in the Grand River Sunday cost three lives. The victims were: William Howard, forty-four, of Howard City; Gladys McCoy, thirteen, Lansing; and Waldo Chase, thirteen, Lansing.

Witnesses say William Howard, fully dressed, walked into the water and grasped his niece, Gladys, and her brother, James, nine, and carried them toward the centre of the river, where they went down. The boy was rescued from the water.

"Waldo Chase, sitting on the shore, leaped into the water to rescue Howard and the two children. Chase succeeded in reaching mid-channel, where he drowned."

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing that McFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores sell one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets with each pile of long standing money back, ended your pile agony or money back.

YOUNG PLAN REVISION

Berlin, June 15.—Steps would be taken as soon as possible to obtain a revision of the Young Plan, Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and two of his cabinet members told the German people in political addresses yesterday. They also declared the emergency tax decrees recently promulgated were absolutely necessary to balance the country's budget.

Australia imports nearly one-half of its annual consumption of 224,000,000 board feet of lumber.

F. H. McPHERSON, EDMONTON, DIES

Member of Editorial Staff of Edmonton Journal For Twenty-one Years

Canadian Press

Edmonton, June 15.—Frank H. McPherston, telegraph and make-up editor of The Edmonton Journal, and long regarded as one of the outstanding newspapermen of the prairies, died at his home here Sunday after an illness of less than ten days.

Born in Hamilton, Ontario, in 1885, he was a son of J. A. McPherston, former head of the McPherston Manufacturing Company, Kemptville, Ontario.

After receiving his education in schools of Hamilton, young McPherston in 1900 went to Trinity College School at Port Hope, Ontario.

Having passed his matriculation examination at Trinity College, he entered McGill University, Montreal. He remained some time at McGill, but did not complete his course, returning to Hamilton. His first newspaper position was circulation manager of a weekly known as The Saturday News, of which A. B. McPherson was proprietor and publisher.

Mr. McPherston remained with The News until December, 1909, when he left to become sporting editor of the Edmonton Daily Capital. For the next year he held that post and then went to The Edmonton Journal staff as sporting editor.

In 1918 he was transferred from the sports branch to become city editor, which position he held for nearly eleven years. Late in 1928 he became telegraph and make-up editor and remained in that position until his last illness.

Two Bodies Are FOUND ON BEACH

Rye, N.Y., June 15.—Two bodies were identified yesterday evening as those of Lillian Kumpf, twenty-seven, an actress, and Robert Johnston, an entertainer, members of a yachting party of eight lost with the auxiliary sloop Sea Fox, May 23.

The body of the actress was identified by her father and her husband, and that of Johnston, by Kenneth Stewart, a Rye reporter.

Bodies were found near the Rye bathing beach yesterday. They left only three missing in the Sea Fox tragedy, claimed by Rye.

The thirty-five-foot craft is supposed to have blown up during a storm after it had left City Island for a week-end cruise.

Three other bodies from the Sea Fox previously had been found. They were those of Mrs. E. Marie Snedden, wife of Donald Snedden, owner of the thirty-five-foot auxiliary sloop, Doris Dewey, a psychologist, and Robert Mendenhall, employed in the statistical department of Columbia University.

Mrs. Mendenhall, Mark C. Cory of Riverside and Donald Snedden, were those remaining known to have been aboard the little craft.

Two Fliers Lose Life

Carpentersville, N.J., June 15.—German le Breque, twenty-one, a hotel employee of Allentown, Pa., and Audrey Updegrave, twenty-three, a fellow employee, living at Byram, were killed yesterday when their biplane crashed on a farm five miles from Carpentersville. Witnesses said the plane, piloted by Breque, fell from a height of 100 feet when the motor apparently failed.

Two Men Drowned

New York, June 15.—Two men drowned and a man and woman were rescued late to-day when their motor launch was wrecked in collision with a municipal ferryboat off Glason Point. The ferry Eimhurst hit the small power craft Ada Iola as the ferry was leaving its slip, loaded with passengers. Andrew Beck, thirty-six, and Edward Walsh, were swept under the ferry and vanished. Arthur Thornton, forty-one, and Rose Golden, thirty-two, of White Plains, who were seated on the stern deck of the little craft, escaped injury. Thornton managed to beach his boat about 500 feet away.

Condemn Budget

Grown In British Columbia

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

The attention of the writer has been drawn to a discussion that has been going on in one of the Vancouver papers as to the comparative merits of plants grown in Europe and those grown in British Columbia.

The great argument put up by the party who was advocating European-grown plants was that generations of plant growing had made the work of the nurserymen and plant breeders superior to that of our own people. It was claimed that roses and other plants grown in continental Europe were better, stronger and finer blooming than those grown in our own country.

It is a strange thing that anything imported is supposed to be better than the domestic article—but is it? Is a tin of jam made in England any better than a tin of jam made in Victoria?

The writer thinks that the domestic article is quite as good, if not better. As to plants, it is quite true that a great many are imported year after year from abroad, but why is the reason? First, because there are not sufficient of many varieties in the country to supply the demand and because enough have not been propagated locally so far. The other reason is that in many cases plants may be imported from abroad more cheaply than they can be grown here with relatively high wages prevailing.

GROWN IN OUR CLIMATE

Now as to quality. It stands to reason that a plant grown in British Columbia from its youth will do better than the imported article, because it does not have to be acclimatized. It can be purchased in its young state, when transplanting will be only a very slight matter, as compared with the moving of a matured plant. Roses particularly were mentioned in the discussion referred to, and it can be said with all truth that better roses cannot be found in the world than those produced in the Fraser Valley and on Vancouver Island.

It is the eating, and British Columbia-grown roses are being exported to other parts of Canada and abroad by the thousands. In fact, the rose-growing business will soon be on a par with the bulb and the seed industry.

The matter of seed growing in British Columbia is gaining ground every day. For a number of years British Columbia-grown seed have been exported in large quantities to England in a large wholesale way. Many of the largest English seed houses have seed grown for them on this island on contract, and some of them have their own seed farms in this Province.

Bulbs, both spring-flowering and summer-flowering, are being grown and are being sold in various parts of Canada. It is only a question of time when the bulbs raised in British Columbia will supply Canada without recourse to Europe.

COMPETITION IN QUALITY

Our standard of living being what it is, and we do not want to lower it, it is impossible to compete in price with cheap European labor, but we can compete in the matter of quality. The whole industry, plants, bulbs and seeds, must be built up on the basis of quality production. The public must be educated to this. The price, only a fraction more than the imported article, will be forgotten when the quality of the plants, bulbs and seeds are taken into consideration.

Far too many people in our province are buying imported products of horticulture. The spirit of buy-at-home is not as strong as it should be, and this applies to many things besides horticultural products. If everyone who has culture in the purchasing power of the province, and would be followed by improvement in business conditions generally.

A large proportion of British Columbia horticultural products are grown on the San Juan Peninsula and the southern part of the Island. Much of the money received for these products is spent with the merchants of Victoria. It therefore follows that any prosperity which comes to the growers is at once reflected by increased business for the business men of Victoria.

The season for buying bulbs will soon be here. July is the month to order them. So why not, when making up your bulb order, specify British Columbia-grown bulbs? By so doing you will be helping the grower; the business man and the Province in general.

FREAK STORMS CAUSE LOSSES IN BRITAIN

Two Persons Killed; Scores
Suffer Minor Injuries; Property
Losses Reported

Canadian Press

London, June 15.—Two persons were killed; scores suffered minor injuries and considerable property was destroyed by a freak storm which ravaged large areas of England and Wales yesterday.

Half a square mile was laid waste in Birmingham by a violent thunderstorm and wind squalls. Many houses were partially demolished, hundreds of roofs were stripped off and scores of windows were smashed in the centre of the city. The business section escaped injury.

Heavy rains and floods were experienced at Glasgow, Liverpool, Chester, Blackpool, Newcastle, Leeds, Bootle, Scarborough, Crewe, Doncaster, Southport, Cheltenham, Portsmouth and Salisbury, while central Wales also was severely swept.

Lightning did some damage in certain spots and hail stones an inch in diameter fell in others, playing havoc with windows and crops.

COAST LUMBER OPERATIONS UP

Seattle, June 15.—A total of 343 mills reporting to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association for the week ending June 6, operated at 45.74 per cent of capacity, as compared to 44.21 per cent of capacity for the preceding week and 57.53 per cent of capacity during the same week last year. For the first twenty-two weeks of 1931 these mills have operated at 41.41 per cent of capacity, as compared to 64.75 per cent for the same period in 1930.

Current new business reported by 220 identical mills was 3.55 per cent under production and shipments were 9.89 per cent under. New rail trade business received during the week was about 300,000 feet more than the volume reported for the previous week; increases of about 9,000,000 feet in the export trade and 500,000 feet in the domestic cargo trade decreased about 5,500,000 feet, making the total new business approximately 4,300,000 feet more than the previous week, and more than the previous over the second week previous.

During the past twenty-seven weeks orders for 220 mills have averaged 7.89 per cent over production. Inventories are now lower than at this time last year, the association stated.

An Income of $100 a Month That You Cannot Lose

Think of it—a monthly income that you could not outlive, that would follow you everywhere, that no business depression could destroy, that no employer could cancel! Isn't this what you would like to have?

Saving money and getting the interest on it would be one way to secure such an income, of course, but very few people can save money for retirement. You know how it is—something always comes along to wipe out the savings. Money which can be easily withdrawn is easily spent. Savings must be kept safe, "even from the saver." If he has them later on. And suppose you became totally disabled and your earning power stopped completely before you had enough money saved to take care of you? Is there any ordinary savings plan that would provide you with the income you need?

This Coupon brings you valuable information without obligation.

Saanichton

A meeting of the members of the North Saanich branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S. League, was held on Wednesday evening in the Orange Hall, Saanichton, with a good attendance of members. The president, Comrade Nat Gray, was in the chair. In the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Comrade the Rev. T. M. Hughes, the secretarial duties were performed by Comrade Alan Calvert.

Among the general business dealt with was the suggestion which has been advanced by other legion branches, that a certain Sunday in the year be set apart to be known as "Legion Sunday," this day to be observed by a "Drumhead Service." This idea was heartily endorsed. Comrade W. Stone, the zone representative, was asked to give a report in connection with the Canadian Legion Provincial Convention, held at New Westminster last month. During the course of an interesting and instructive report it was shown that the legion in this province is a virile and active force from the viewpoint of advancing the interests of the disabled war veterans, widows, and dependents. Numerically and financially, the various branches in the province, it was reported, are growing stronger.

During the recent period, when refreshments were served, an informal meeting was held at which Major (Dr.) W. Bapty of the Canadian Scottish was introduced and spoke in a very interesting way concerning the activities of the 16th Battalion. Owing to the interest taken in the Canadian Scottish in various parts of the Island, he said it had been suggested that a platoon be formed in the northern end of the Saanich Peninsula.

An interesting discussion took place on Scottish army traditions, reminiscences of the 16th in France from the first gas attack at Ypres, April 22, 1915, to the end of the war, was participated in by Capt. C. H. Wilson, "an original 16th," Comrade Ross of the Pro Patria branch, and others who, although not in the ranks of the 16th, were in various other Canadian units and paid great tribute to the work of the battalion overseas.

This branch of the legion went on record as favoring the idea of the formation of the platoon, not with the idea of engendering the military spirit, but from the point of view of fostering that "comradeship of the ranks" for the benefit derived from the physical training, and most important, the in-

HALLSHAM AS LEADER

The Marquis of Salisbury's retirement as Conservative leader in the House of Lords is reported as probable because of his continued ill-health. In the event of his retirement, Lord Hallsham, formerly Sir Douglas Hogg, who was Lord High Chancellor in the last Conservative administration, is expected to succeed him. Lord Hallsham has been substituting for Lord Salisbury for some months and it is understood Lord Salisbury has asked Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, party leader, to nominate Lord Hallsham for the post.

BOY AND GIRL RIVER VICTIMS

Edmonton, June 15.—Robert and Isobel Dunbar, nine and six, were drowned in the North Saskatchewan River when they slipped off the boat dock near the low level bridge into the swiftly-moving current at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Sitting on the edge of the dock with her feet in the water, the girl fell in and her brother followed when he held out his hands in an attempt to grasp her.

"Oh, Belle, Belle," he screamed as he reached out his hands and a moment later—fell in with her. The swift current swept them away and John Peduk, six, their playmate, ran for help, but nothing could be done.

Greece Wants To Sell More To This Country

Montreal, June 15.—Angela Metaxa, Greek delegate to the recent International Chamber of Commerce Congress at Washington, in an interview here, declared that unless trade was conducted on a more equitable basis, Greece would stop buying from Canada and enter into reciprocal trade agreements with other producing countries.

Last year Canadian exports to Greece amounted to more than $5,000,000, while Canada imported only about $300,000 worth of goods in return, Mr. Metaxa said. Wheat formed a large part of Greek imports from this country, he added, and expressed the opinion that unless a more equal volume of exchange was arrived at, Greece would buy its wheat elsewhere, probably from Russia.

Greece was anxious to deal with

When all is not well with digestion take

Canada, he said, but could not do so unless Canada bought from Greece in return.

MEMORIAL FUND IS FORGOTTEN

16,700, Collected in Memory of Composer, Still Lies in Bank

Toronto, June 15.—Apparently forgotten by the public after it was collected, the sum of $16,700 is lying in the city treasury here, principal and interest on the amount contributed to erect a memorial to Alexander Muir, Toronto teacher, who wrote "The Maple Leaf Forever."

It is twenty-five years since the death of the composer of the anthem, which was first sung at Beaverton, Ontario, in 1871. Admirers here began to raise a fund for a monument in 1911, but since 1922 the money has been left to accumulate without any action being taken as to its disposal.

That the money should be used to aid under-privileged children instead of building a stone shaft is the contention of a local educationalist. Another suggestion is that it should be spent in furthering musical studies in the schools.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

OVERFEEDING MAKES BABY UNCOMFORTABLE

In the use of lactic acid, or any of the artificially soured milks, it is generally believed that baby's appetite may safely dictate the amount fed. In breast feeding, though there is a time limit to the nursing period, the baby gets variable amounts at each feeding, his mother will discover by weighing before and after a nursing.

But even this flexible rule may be outraged when baby takes far more food than is either necessary or desirable. Mrs. F. T. H. faces just such a problem. She is offering at each feeding far too much food, and the little gormand is guzzling it all and suffering afterwards.

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER FEEDING

Mrs. F. T. H. says, in part, "I am following the method of preparation of lactic acid milk found in your leaflet and find it far easier than the old drop by drop method I used formerly. But I am doing something wrong, because baby is gaining too fast and is uncomfortable and gassy after each feeding. He is four months old and weighs fifteen pounds and gets five eight-ounce feedings daily."

"He cares little or nothing for his additional foods, and one teaspoon of cereal and a couple of teaspoons of orange juice are about his limit. But he takes every drop of his bottle and then belches and grunts and acts miserable for an hour or more after."

FORMULA OUT OF PROPORTION

The baby is just four months old, weighs fifteen pounds and is getting forty ounces of practically undiluted milk. That would be an orgy for a year old baby. Babies get from one and one-half to two ounces of milk for each pound of their weight. In that case, thirty ounces would be the maximum for your baby; the baby of any age should never have more than thirty-two ounces of milk daily. Your trouble can easily be overcome by limiting the feedings to five six-ounce feedings daily. The baby will then have a better appetite for some of the other essential foods.

As for the restlessness at night, see what happens when you make this change in the feedings. It is probably just the same kind of discomfort that afflicts him after the other feedings, but at this hour you are eager for him to go to sleep and notice it more. Turn him occasionally or pat his back to help rid of the gas. Otherwise, leave him alone. Eventually he will learn that this is bedtime and will be satisfied to lie quietly until he drops off to sleep.

To-morrow: "Children Should Develop Unimportant Questions."

PRINCE GREETS VETERAN'S SON

Baby at Douglas Haig Memorial Home Presented to Royal Visitor

Canadian Press

London, June 15.—Douglas Albert Alexander Barker, henceforth to be known as "Bonny," smiled a toothless smile at His Royal Highness as the Prince of Wales came up and gravely offered to shake hands. "Bonny" is just a young fellow about six months old.

"Hello, Bonny," said the Prince, but Bonny of course couldn't answer. However, Bonny did try to twist a button from the royal coat. The meeting happened when the Prince was "presented" to Bonny at the Douglas Haig Memorial Home at Morden, Surrey. The Prince had been a strong factor in the appeal for funds in connection with the home. The homes are for married disabled ex-servicemen with their families, and were a number of houses comprise the "homes," and each is fully furnished and equipped. Bonny is just one of the happy residents.

"I had hoped to do far more and better for you, but I hope you will forgive my many omissions. It has been an interesting term of office."

"I should be sorrier to leave the presidency did it not go to one who is well fitted to fill the post, and under the guidance of your new president I am sure the council will go forward rapidly. I trust you will treat her as you have treated me, always with kindness, friendship and forbearance."

Sea of Mud Greeted Horses For Opening of Racing Season

Only Two Public Choices Win Out At Colwood Track

Outside Haves Big Day and Prices Are Good; Sun Flash, Winner of Second Race, Returns $22.95 for Longest Odds of Day; Jeu de Bar Captures Opening Handicap After Great Battle With Bowcroft; Daily Double Is Introduced and Proves Popular; Returns $73.60 for $2

With the track a sea of mud horse racing was introduced to British Columbia for the 1931 season at the Colwood mile track Saturday afternoon. Although there was a steady fall of rain throughout the seven races a good opening crowd was in attendance, although it failed to measure up to anywhere near the crowds that have been present in former years for the first day's racing. Those who did brave the elements witnessed some first-class racing with good fields, while in five out of the seven the prices were good. Of the seven events only two favorites managed to get down in front.

The track was in a terrible state, a gumbo was half a foot deep, and a result the form followed the day's picking. It was a great day for a mudder but a miserable one for a jockey. The boys after every race, apt those who were on the leading lines, were covered in mud from head to foot and looked like a bunch of gnomes with their blackened faces. Betting was fairly brisk, although nothing like former years. The daily double inaugurated for the first time today proved popular, and those who were in on the rail to lead made very good money. Tommy Doyle's Gold Cup in the third and fourth races drew $73.60 for $2. The longest odds of the afternoon were returned by Sun Flash, winner of the second, who paid back $22.95 for a $2 stake on the nose. Jim Hogan, with $17.50, while Gold Cup paid $20 in the fourth.

Jim Hogan, with Carter up, made a big day of the first. Breaking on a general Sutton's entry was always in front to win from Bee Somers and four lengths. Linger Longer was half a length behind. Beating off the stretch drive of right Outlook, the favorite, Sun Flash won in the second. The winner lay in the field at the start and in on the rail to lead and made very good money. Bright Outlook finished strongly but lost too much ground in going wide on the last turn. Annie Francis finished third. Tommy Doyle was the class of the third, winning by five lengths over Jean G. the favorite. Neroli was in third place and Oregon Mist fourth. The fourth race was a close one, with the fourth when Gold Cup, Richardson came through to beat out Silk rain by two lengths. The latter was second best, but after taking the lead was unable to hold off the speed of the winner. Master Rock finished strong to take the show pot.

AVORITE WINS
Jeu de Bar, the public choice, was the winner of the opening handicap after a thrilling stretch drive with overcast, second choice. These two rode on top of the field with Bowcroft in front. Jeu de Bar remained in a commanding position and after the final turn moved up into the lead and enough speed to beat out Bowcroft by half a length. Heads up finished third, but was better a contender for the first two horses.

The sixth race witnessed the best race of the day. The field broke well in this event, except for Russell Gardner, who was left at the post. The veteran finally started ten lengths behind and caught the field at the halfway mark. Will Ward went to the lead coming into the stretch, closely followed by Russell Gardner and far behind Hope, the favorite. Will Ward managed to last until the wire, finishing by hand with Russell Gardner taking a nose decision from Clarendon Hope for the place berth.

The seventh and final race saw Fair Annie, with Pevio about the win as he leased. The winner went out in front a mile event and stayed there to a winner by six lengths. Miss Eklon was second with a second place, while Jockey Richardson led the riders with two winning mounts and a second. Complete results follow:

FANS WESS ACTION PLUS AT MAT CARD

Middleweights Put on First Class Show; Reed and McLaughlin Draw

Anderson Shows Courage to Win Over Joe Gardiner; Good Crowd Attends

Just about the finest wrestling show ever put on in Victoria was seen at the Tillicum gymnasium on Saturday evening. The card featured middleweights, and the little fellows put on a show that had the large crowd on its feet the majority of the time. All the bouts were crammed full of action and there was not a dull moment during the entire evening. The fans showed their approval by much applause and the local promoters have decided as a result to give the little fellows a "break" in future shows.

In the eight-round main event, Des Anderson, Seattle, won over Joe Gardiner, Moose Jaw, two falls out of three, while in the five-round semi-main event, Reed, Portland, and Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver, battled all the way without a fall.

The Reed-McLaughlin affair was a slam-bang set-to. Both boys are fast as chain lightning, are strong and can absorb plenty of punishment. They were both in the pink of condition and set a terrific pace from the first round until the last. Both boys drew their share of rosters and as a result there was a great deal of action. Each side was encouraged by the fans, each side was encouraged by the referee, and each side was encouraged by the referee.

FEEL EACH OTHER OUT
The first round was fairly even with the pair feeling each other out and working to get punishing holds. The crowd got a great kick when both were flat on the mat and each was applying a headlock. Neither would give up and they finally broke together and jumped to their feet like coiled springs. In the second round, Reed tried to wear his man down with writhes, while McLaughlin was using headlocks. Both were still fresh.

In the third the boys began to get a little rougher and they finally broke together with the butt of their hands, but the fast pace continued. Reed threw McLaughlin against the ropes once and the latter came back with a wheel and attempted to land his feet in Reed's stomach but the Portlander was quick and dodged. McLaughlin clamped on a leg split at the start of the fourth but Reed wriggled clear and returned the hold. McLaughlin worked free and the Seattle boy was left with a healthy slap. McLaughlin had his little opponent in a wristlock at the belt.

USES FLYING TACKLE
The fifth round was fairly even with the pair feeling each other out and working to get punishing holds. The crowd got a great kick when both were flat on the mat and each was applying a headlock. Neither would give up and they finally broke together and jumped to their feet like coiled springs. In the second round, Reed tried to wear his man down with writhes, while McLaughlin was using headlocks. Both were still fresh.

NEW HOLD
Anderson showed the fans a new hold in the second to obtain the first fall. Getting what is known as the "fourfoot" he forced Gardiner to concede a fall. Grabbing hold of his opponent's hands he turned him over on his stomach and pulled back on his arms with one foot placed in the middle of his back.

Gardiner rushed out from his corner and with a series of rapid punches. The Seattle grappler sought the protection of the ropes for a fifteen count. On his return Gardiner got an arm stretch, broke Anderson broke and applied a whip wristlock, and Gardner managed to get to the ropes and save himself. Anderson received a big hand from the fans when he broke the fourth Boston crab.

The fourth round saw Gardner obtain the second and tying fall. Applying a series of headlocks he soon had Anderson groggy and following a flying mare he pressed his shoulders to the mat with a body pin.

SPORTS

Jack Wagner, professional wrestler, is probably more in demand, in the New England states than anyone else in the game. His popularity is probably due to his never ceasing action as long as he is in the ring. It is said that his opponents are always on the defensive. He started in the game when he was only nineteen years old. His first bout was with the rough and ready Walek Zbyzsko and when the smoke of battle cleared away Wagner was prone in the ring with both his arms broken. The German had won right back at the game and has been given great guns ever since. It has often been noticed that Zbyzsko has been noticeably refused to meet the German boy in a return match.

TROEH BREAKS 200 STRAIGHT

Captures Oregon State Singles Trapshooting Title By Fine Performance

Portland, Ore., June 15.—By allowing some of the 100 targets to go unmissed, Frank Troeh, veteran Portland trapshooter, captured the Oregon state singles trapshooting championship here Sunday.

He was one of the five men who broke 100 straight targets in the first half of the tournament Saturday. Yesterday he was the only one to duplicate the feat.

George Young Portland, took the all-round championship by making 206 out of 350 including doubles, singles and handicap birds. Troeh and H. M. Hollyfield, Portland, tied for second with 333.

Troeh won long-run honors with 217 unfinished.

JOYERS DOWN CITY IN CUP SERIES 3-1

Take Connaught Football Fixture From Team That Eliminated Esquimalt

City Starts Two Men Short; Bunyan, Cozier and McBay Net For Winners

The Jokers once again demonstrated they are a winning, if not a brilliant, football team, when they took Victoria City nicely into camp at Athletic Park, Saturday afternoon. In the second round of the Connaught Cup series, the score was 3 to 1, and though the two goals that won the game for them were not scored till well on into the second half, the Jokers looked good enough throughout.

A drizzling rain made the going heavy and the treacherous ground spoiled the chances for accurate football. As in their first game with Esquimalt, which they won, 4 to 3 in overtime, the City started two men short. Bunyan, this time's regular centre, arrived just before half time to partly make up for this deficit, but the team was one short the rest of the game. Bowman, whose knee has given him trouble of late, damaged it again in the kicking around preceding the match, and could not start. The City had a number of Saanich men on their line up. The Jokers played almost with their entire regular team.

CITY SCORE FIRST
City drew first blood. The game was not very hot when the efficient Viggers, centre-half for the Jokers, did some pretty dribbling through the Jokers' halves, passed to outside left Minnie, who footed the ball on to Pepin at centre. Pepin took the ball over to the left of the goal, but close in. He took a long sharp angled kick a shot right into the far corner. It was a pretty goal.

The roving Bunyan, who is occasionally a Jokers' inside right, but manages to cover the field pretty thoroughly during the course of a match, equalized almost at once. He took a long rainbow shot that dropped in behind goalie Abbott.

Bunyan came on for the City and Pepin went to inside right. The first centre half position, the Jokers' half back was the only one of Anderson, winners' centre, who handled the ball on the City's goal line while leaping to intercept.

EVEN AT HALF TIME
The whistle sounded with the score one all. Well on into the second half, Coster, the Navy player who was holding down the Jokers' inside right, the Jokers took a cross pass from Minnie and netted. Soon after Burns had tough luck, his slow shot to the corner being deflected by goalie Chalmers to the post. The ball rebounded into play, but was cleared.

McBay, Jokers' inside left, netted the first goal of the second half, with a deft cut from within the goal area. This brought the score to 3 to 1. MacKay refereed, and Dowds and Woodley were line-men. The teams were: Jokers—Chalmers, Burns, Minnie, Burns, Pepin and Barnswell.

ST. SAVIOUR'S AND NANAIMO IN CUP VICTORIES

Defeat St. Andrew's and Ladysmith, Respectively, in Connaught Cup Soccer

Vancouver, June 15.—St. Saviour's defeated St. Andrew's, 4 to 2, in a Dominion championship second-round game Saturday afternoon at Con James Park. With Aubrey Martin failing to show up, St. Andrew's were hard pressed to field a team, and Fred Wilson had to turn out to complete the eleven. Rain made the pitch slippery and little goal football was shown by either side.

Five minutes after the start, Alcock headed out a centre from the straight to Moffat's feet when the outside right, was all alone, and the winger took deliberate aim to beat Clark with a low shot into the left-hand corner of the net to put St. Saviour's one up. Rock reversed matters for St. Andrew's with an unbeatable ball. Bradbury gave Hall a back pass and the inside left, beat Clark with a low shot into the left-hand corner of the net to put the churchmen ahead again. Clark, of St. Andrew's, presented St. Saviour's with their third goal when he ran out on a long shot from Ashton and allowed it to bounce over his head into the net.

In the second half, St. Saviour's led 4 to 2. A fourth goal for St. Saviour's after ten minutes. Midway through the period McNeill pushed the ball ahead to Daly, who hooked it. Rock, and St. Saviour's' tactics spread again. The centre ran forward to beat Alsbury from close in.

Nanaimo, June 15.—Fifteen hundred people Saturday saw Nanaimo City football team defeat Ladysmith in a Dominion Challenge Cup tie on a muddy field, 3 to 2. Rain had fallen almost continuously since midnight. The state of the field prevented any real football. Nanaimo showed what there was of it, having almost all of the game until thirty-five minutes of the second half had gone, when Ladysmith scored their first goal, up to which time the locals were leading 3-0.

CELTICS AND HAKOAH DRAW

Touring Scottish Team and N.Y. Club in 1 to 1 Tie; Four Players Banned

New York, N.Y., June 15.—The famous Glasgow Celtic soccer team held the clever Hakoah all-stars to a 1-to-1 tie at the Polo grounds yesterday in the eighth game of their tour of the United States and Canada.

Twenty thousand people saw the battle including Mayor Jimmy Walker and a host of city officials. Saturday Celtic downed the Carleton eleven at Montreal, 7 to 0.

The game was very rough throughout and resulted in two players on each team being ordered off the field. Guttman and Napier for fighting and Nicholson and Scott for deliberate fouling. The reduction in man power robbed the contest of much interest. Hakoah's lead at half time by Nicholson's goal which he headed into the net after thirty-five minutes from a great pass from Grenfell. Na-pier drew level for the Celtics thirteen minutes after the resumption.

LOCAL GOAT SETS RECORD

Animal Owned By Miss J. E. Harvey Gives Remarkable Quantity of Milk

Word has been received from Ottawa that the Saanen doe, "Echo of Deerfield," C.G.S. 518, owned by Miss J. E. Harvey, Victoria, on official R.O.P. test, gave the phenomenal quantity of 4,340.8 pounds of milk in 365 days, with butter-fat test of 4.66 per cent, giving a butter-fat yield of 197.81 pounds.

This record was made on first freshening and is 172 pounds higher than the previous record made by a goat in England.

Converting these figures into liquid measure, it means that this doe gave 424 gallons of milk in a year, or a daily average of over a gallon and a pint. This quantity is considerably higher than the annual milk yield of cows in Canada.

SALES TAX HITS INDEPENDENT AND SMALL RETAILERS

Winnipeg, June 15.—The budget innovation in the way of collecting the sales tax certainly is going to be disastrous to the retailers of western Canada and to lay unfair burdens on their customers. The Free Press says. The tax is four per cent of the cost. That is to say, on goods sold by manufacturers direct to their customers, the tax is four per cent. But where goods are sold by the wholesaler, the tax works out differently. It becomes four per cent on the wholesaler's selling cost, which includes freight and other expenses. Thus the tax is estimated, will in reality amount to 8 1/2 per cent.

The retailer has to deal with a wholesaler or jobber. Circumstances compel him to do so. So he pays at least 8 1/2 per cent instead of four per cent. Obviously, this increases the cost to the customers. They have the added tax passed on to them. This means that it is the higher tax the people throughout western Canada will be compelled to pay. They may think they are being taxed at the announced rate of four per cent. They are really being taxed at a rate of 8 1/2 per cent.

The effects of this can be foreseen. They cannot help being disastrous. In the first place, the retailer competing with the chain store will be put out of business. He will be for a simple reason. The chain store deals with the manufacturer and so will have to pay only the four per cent tax, while the retailer, having to deal with the wholesaler or the jobber, will have to pay a tax of 8 1/2 per cent.

The best that retailers all over the west who have their fields to themselves, can look to, will be to have to charge their customers more than they would have to charge them were the sales tax levied without the partiality indicated.

But where retailers have not the fields to themselves, they will not alone have to charge their customers more, but they will find themselves put out of business.

Further consideration of the new sales tax discloses that it will hit every retailer, discriminate by imposing undue costs on the buying public in western Canada.

Langford

The pupils of the fourth grade with their teacher, Miss L. Peacey, held a picnic on Friday afternoon at Langford Lake. Swimming, games and refreshments were enjoyed.

Miss Rita McKnight is spending the week-end with her parents at Goldstream.

Mrs. Knight entertained some young friends on Saturday afternoon to celebrate her daughter's, Vera, ninth birthday.

The visitors included Mrs. Austen Yates, Mrs. J. T. Jallind, Henry Smedley, Molly Dixon, Rosemary Bullen, Margaret Yates, Joyce and Pat Jallind.

Friendly games of tennis were played on the Langford hard courts on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. W. J. C. Johnston and the committee served tea.

Shirley Hunt passed her "short test" at the Girl Guide meeting held on Saturday afternoon at Langford Lakeside by courtesy of Mrs. H. C. C. Bennett. Instruction games and swimming were part of the afternoon session.

WAGE DEBATES IN BRITAIN

London, June 15.—British industry commenced an anxious week to-day. Textile workers, dock laborers, engineers and miners are all negotiating over wages.

At Bradford to-day representatives of the textile workers' unions met to discuss the attitude toward the decision of the employers to introduce wage reductions of 14.6 per cent in the woolen trade.

Fifty engineering unions have to decide Wednesday whether they will accept or reject the employers' modified wage terms.

Colliery owners and representatives of the miners will meet Thursday for a five-day conference. "It would be folly to disguise the fact the situation is serious," said A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation. "But it is far from hopeless."

AIRPLANES

wrong. I don't know, and be evidently does not know, either. But I do know that the inventive genius that has made the aeroplane possible is everlastingly experimenting to improve it, and the engine that will lift the machine straight up is due in a very short time.

You remember when the automobile first came in. We cranked it, sometimes broke our wrists, and it a couple of blocks away to warm up the works and so on. To-day we hop into the car, touch the starter and are off instantly in high. The aeroplane soon will be likewise.

The price of $500 per acre is a "long price" for an airport. It may be cheap enough for a producing orchard, as that land is, but all that would have to be destroyed. Why buy highly improved property when all we need is the bare ground?

RE VICTORIA'S PROPOSED AIRPORT

To the Editor:—Will you kindly find space in your valuable paper for the following comments from a ratepayer on your proposed new airport.

I would like you to understand from the outset that I am thoroughly in favor of giving work to our unemployed, and the members of our city council will find they can keep these men busy for a long time to come if they will go through the streets of our city with this end in view, some of our vacant lots are a disgrace to a city that is supposed to look like a garden. In a couple of weeks the new thistles will be four and five feet high on some of these lots, and they will even have the nerve to grow on lots which have reverted to the city.

Things that should be stopped by the powers that be. One has only to pass the junk heap where the old jam factory was on Douglas Street, to see if this statement is incorrect. Our city has many wrecks of disused stores and dwellings that our unemployed could be put at pulling down. It most certainly should not be necessary to pass a by-law to find money for this very necessary work, it should come out of current revenue.

Our city council has it in their power to cut out all overlapping departments and stop wasteful expenditures. I wonder if our mayor and aldermen think it fair to draw the remuneration they do from the city when most other business houses are cutting down salaries to help meet expenditures. A little softening of the council members would be much appreciated by the ratepayers on this score. During the striking of the new tax rate recently when the ratepayers strongly opposed any advance in taxation our mayor and aldermen laid the blame on the shoulder of the rate-

COLISEUM THEATRE

Stuart Erwin, Eugene Pallette, Mitzel
Green, Charles Seaton and June Collier are on the list of prominent screen personalities Paramount has brought to the cast of Jack Oakie's newest talkie comedy-riot, "Dude Ranch," which is showing currently at the Coliseum Theatre.

Erwin was the befuddled sweetheart of Helen Kane in the now famous picture "Sweetie," in which Oakie began his climb to screen stardom. Erwin afterward played bewildered comics in "Young Eagles," "Playboy of Paris,"
"No Limit" and others.

Pallette has lent his burly brawn to the upbuilding of such comedies as "Let's Go Native," "See How They Run" and "Pays to Advertise." He first attracted the goodwill of fandom by his performances as the thick-skulled Sgt. Heath in the Philo Vance murder mystery films.

Mitzel Green started her film career in "The Marriage Playground." She has since provided comedy carryings on in "Honey," "Tom Sawyer," "Finn and Hattie" and "Stinky."

LOGAN INDUSTRY IS THREATENED, SAYS J. B. MUNRO

Syrup From United States Being Bought, States Deputy Minister of Agriculture

Tells Gyros to Support B.C. Products; Up to Women; Praises Press

"It is likely that at least 1,600,000 pounds of loganberries will be grown on the Saanich peninsula this season. Of this, one half will probably go to the wineries. The growers will lose out on the other half," said J. B. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in the course of an appeal to buy B.C. products made at the Gyro Club's luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day. Mr. Munro asked why part of the surplus could not be used for the soda fountain for their loganberry syrup.

"The growers will tell you there is no demand for the syrup, that people do not know of the possibilities of making a syrup out of the berries. In fact, last year alone 60,000 gallons of loganberry syrup were imported from across the line. In a few years we will have so discouraged the logan industry here that the growers will pass out of the picture," Mr. Munro said.

DRIVING OUT YOUNG PEOPLE
Mr. Munro pointed out the need to give the preference to goods with B.C. labels, because, if this were not done, business here would be lost to the young people would be "driven out" of the country. In the case of fruits, consumers, he considered, should be trained by the retailers to wait two weeks for B.C. fruit to ripen. Instead of buying it at dearer prices from southern growers.

Mr. Munro gave figures illustrating the amount of business done with outsiders that could just as easily be done with provincial producers. Two million meals a day were eaten by British Columbians, he said, and this represented quite a grocery bill. In addition, about as many suits, pairs of shoes and socks were worn, the demand for which could be met by B.C. manufacturers, if encouragement were given them. The responsibility for supporting B.C. products lay very largely with the women, he emphasized.

B.C. PILCHARDS
"Local pilchards are not popular here," the deputy minister observed. "They are not regarded as a society dish. Yet we eat Californian sardines. Up here we are honest enough to call those sardines pilchards."

No institution in Canada was doing more good to help Canadian industries than the press, observed Mr. Munro, hinting that its example might well be copied by others.

WORLD ELIER DUE ON TAFT
S. Shingu, Racing Around Globe, Will Arrive Here To-morrow Morning
Will Fly to Seattle; Opponent Is Flying Opposite Way Around World

Bringing S. Shingu, Tokio newspaperman and around-the-world flier, besides a large shipment of silk which will be discharged here for shipment to New York via the Panama, the American Mail Line steamship President Taft is scheduled to arrive at the William Head quarantine station to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock. The latest report stated she would dock at the Outer Wharf about 8:15 o'clock.

According to recent word from Japan, Shingu will have the week around the world and will have it assembled already for the take-off by the time the ship reaches the city. While no details of the type of plane being used have yet been known, it is believed it will have wheels and will be towed to the Lansdowne field for a take-off. If, however, it is a seaplane, it will be lowered into the harbor and will speed away towards Seattle on the first leg of its journey.

RACING FELLOW COUNTRYMAN
Shingu is racing T. Fukuma, who is going westward around the world for the substantial cash prize donated by The Asahi, well-known newspaper of Tokio, sponsor of the contest. Fukuma is expected to arrive here on June 27 to board the President Taft on his way across to Japan.

According to schedule, Shingu is expected to fly direct to Seattle, which port he will leave at 6:30 o'clock to-morrow evening, arriving in Chicago at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning. If all goes well, the silk to be left here by the President Taft will be put aboard the H. P. Alexander in the evening.

FREE DRIVER OF BLAME IN CAR FATALITY

A. C. Wilson, Youbou, Driver of Car Which Killed Wong Shee, Could Not See Woman

Dressed in the black satin costume worn by Chinese women, Wong Shee, sixty-two, who died instantly when struck by a car during the rain at 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning on Douglas Street, south of Discovery, was invisible until the moment of impact, A. C. Wilson, Youbou, B.C., driver of the automobile, told the coroner's jury at an inquest in the B.C. Funeral Parlors this morning.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.
Mr. Wilson said he was driving into Victoria from Cowichan Lake on the night of the accident in a Buick car equipped with four-wheel brakes. "I didn't notice anything until a moment before I struck the lady," he stated, adding "I was driving about thirty miles an hour at the time."

"Suddenly I saw something ahead of me and struck it at once. It all happened so quickly I was unable to do anything."
DIED IMMEDIATELY
"Both headlights were on and the brakes were in good repair. I figure it took me thirty-nine feet to stop the car. I got out immediately and ran to the body. The woman appeared to be dead."

When questioned he said he had driven cars for the last twelve years. It was raining at the time of the fatality, but his windshield was kept clear by an automatic wiper.
"The figure looked exactly the same as the road since it was clad in a black satin suit. After the car had struck her, it must have carried the body along until it stopped."

Constable James Strong said he was called to the scene of the mishap about 2:20 o'clock and found the deceased lying in the road. She appeared to be dead. North of the body a car was parked. It was owned by Mr. Wilson.

DRIVER SOBER
"The driver of the car was perfectly sober and gave all the assistance he possibly could. It was raining at the time," a witness said.
A brake test this morning showed the car to be in good order. Constable Strong continued. At the point of impact, the cluster light was out. The right front wheel was damaged as was the radiator on that side.

Dr. John Moore told the jury he found the body lying in the road. There were severe injuries about the head and neck which he believed caused death. The injuries were apparently inflicted by a motor car.

Constable P. Atkinson told of measurements taken. No skid marks were visible. The night was rainy and very dark with visibility poor. Although the road was wet, it was not particularly slippery, being surfaced with cement, he said.

SAYS PROPOSED AIRPORT MOST SUITABLE SITE

E. Carter Guest, Civil Aviation Inspector, Praises Gordon Head Field

Ideal For Passenger Planes and Instructional Purposes

"Victoria couldn't wish for a finer airport than the proposed site at Gordon Head. It is eminently suited not only for the landing of passenger and mail planes, but also for the instruction of students should a flying school be established here," said E. Carter guest, inspector under the civil aviation department of the Department of National Defence, in endorsing the proposed airport before the Victoria branch of the Women's Aeronautical Association at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mrs. Ernest E. presided and special guests included Mrs. G. G. Scurrah, president of the Women's Canadian Club; Mrs. E. G. Maynard, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club; and Alderman W. T. Strath.

Mr. Guest briefly reviewed the airport situation throughout Canada, and the developments of flying since the war. During the war about 85 per cent of the aircraft in the Dominion were Canadian-born, so it was natural that Canada had been looked upon as in the van of aviation progress.

In 1924 eastern Canada had taken up the question of aviation seriously, realizing its potential value in this land of great distances and unpaved roads. To this end between sixteen and twenty flying organizations had been organized under the "light air club" movement with much success, and many students had been taught flying. Much had also been taught in the "air consciousness" among the general public.

Mr. Guest paid a tribute to the women for their interest in aviation matters. Women, he declared, were more adaptable and more ready to accept and endorse new ideas. Those who had flown were always enthusiastic, and had done much to spread the gospel of "air-mindedness." He urged the development of a public attitude towards aviation as a safe means of transportation, and decreed "stunt" flying as harmful to the great cause of aviation.

Reference was made to the air-mail which had been started in Vancouver about ten years ago. At that time it had been considered a "stunt" but it had rapidly proved a great asset to the business world of the Dominion. Little towns throughout Canada had inaugurated flying fields, about eleven in all being either established in process of formation in British Columbia alone. He was, therefore, unable to understand why Victoria had not yet established adequate airport facilities. To encourage tourist trade, it was essential that the most up-to-date methods of transportation be established here. With air routes being established in the smaller interior towns, air traffic would naturally increase, and unless Victoria had its own airport, it was likely to be left out of the air route or routes which might be organized.

In reply to questions, Mr. Guest expressed the opinion that the majority of planes coming to Victoria from the United States would be land machines, thus requiring an airport. When the air mail was again established, it would probably come to the coast by way of Chilliwack, which had just completed "one of the finest airports on the North American continent," in relation to the size of its population.

From Chilliwack to Victoria was only an hour's run by plane, whereas to Vancouver from Chilliwack took three-quarters of an hour. With Victoria's clearer visibility and comparative freedom from fog, it was likely that air mail would land here, in preference to Vancouver, if landing facilities were available, in the speaker's opinion.

Mrs. Goddard, a woman pilot, related her first plane ride in 1921 in Victoria, when she went up with Capt. Kenneth Saunders. Since that time she and her late husband, Norman Goddard, had conducted a flying school on the campus at Leavenworth University at Palo Alto, California. After his death last year she had continued the school.

Mrs. Goddard also emphasized the need for adequate airport facilities for passenger planes, and for the purposes of teaching students.

ASKS LENIENCY

Vancouver, June 15.—Maxine Holland asked leniency when she pleaded guilty in police court here to-day to four charges of forging prescriptions for morphine. She was remanded till June 18 for sentence.

"You all know me in this court," she said. "I have been here before, but was never accused of anything before. We all think we are in our right senses when we are under the influence of drugs. I was persuaded to write these prescriptions by another. At that time I could see nothing wrong with the suggestion. I wanted to get my job back home!" she concluded as she broke down and wept.

The prosecution declared thirty-four prescriptions to which the name of a reputable physician had been cleverly forged were located by R.C.M.P. investigators in local drug stores, where they had been presented and accepted in good faith.

"QUEEN'S GARDEN" OPENED TO-DAY

London, June 15.—Children spread rose petals in the path of Princess Mary when she opened a garden adjoining the West Ham Central Mission, Barkling Road. The garden, just a few short months ago was a scrap yard for old iron, and now is a riot of bloom. The garden is called "The Queen's garden," and Queen Mary, who has shown a great interest in it, sent a garden seat and several plants from the Royal Gardens at Sandringham. It will be used by the 2,000 members of the Mission and invalid children will have lessons in it.

IR GEORGE PAISH TELLS WHY DEPRESSION SO WORLD-WIDE

Sir George Paish, formerly editor of the London Statist and one of Great Britain's most distinguished economists, is in the United States holding conferences with leading statesmen, business men and bankers. He sets forth in an interview in Barron's weekly his views as to the causes for and the remedies to be applied in curing the business depression now prevailing in this country and the world at large. He is genuinely alarmed over the outlook, and states that the spirit of nationalism in the United States and Europe is responsible for the depression and that it is forcing the world into bankruptcy. In his interview he says:

"Without desiring to be severe, I am compelled by the facts of the situation to state, and to state definitely, that the spirit of nationalism in the United States is in no small degree responsible for world-wide depression, as well as for the depression in the United States, and that unless this spirit is changed, both in the United States and in other countries, from that of nationalism to what I may term universalism, that is, the spirit which promotes a policy beneficial to all nations, any remedy of the present situation cannot be found."

RES NATIONAL DISTRESS INCREASE

The distress in which all nations find themselves is increasing, and is a real danger of both a trade and a credit breakdown. The policy that is being pursued, not only in America, but also in Europe and in other countries, is forcing the world into bankruptcy and it is into revolution. It is impossible to survey the political conditions now prevailing in the world without a feeling of great anxiety. Already, many revolutions have taken place in South America and a good many in Europe, and others will undoubtedly take place if this policy is persisted in.

"The remedy is not an effort to be more self-contained, not an effort by each nation to do without the rest of the world, but an increasing effort towards co-operation with other nations in the interest of the common well-being."

"Possibly in ancient times there was something to be said for the policy now being pursued, when the retail spirit was so strong and nations were in process of formation, but in these days, when the world has become an economic unit and each nation has for a very considerable period been bringing its contribution to the common well-being, it is not only folly, but also criminal for nations to seek to go back to the policy that was suitable to primitive conditions. If pursued in this way, it will bring us to a condition of distress without parallel."

MUST BRING CO-OPERATION

"The only possible policy that will carry the nations out of their present troubles into a new and greater spirit of prosperity is a policy of co-operation and co-operation, which will make the whole world still more efficient as an economic unit, which will expand the trade of all countries, and which will bring universal prosperity."

"The effort to go back to the old conditions has already brought great suffering, and the continuance of this effort will intensify this suffering in a manner that no reasonable being desires to contemplate."

"The immediate outlook is most disturbing, and it is evident that constructive measures for the rehabilitation of the prosperity of all nations must be taken without delay if disaster is to be averted."

N. Y. Market Analysis

The Wall Street Journal to-day says:

"Considerable study is being given to the movements in brokers' loans which are in contrast with stock prices. It is pointed out that at times in the past when brokers' loans have gone down, stock prices have risen, and vice versa. It is pointed out that it is not a coincidence that the decline in brokers' loans of $49,000,000 during a period when industrial averages rose 1.17 points is considered significant."

"The market in the past week was affected more by technical conditions than by fundamentals. There was no sharp advance but evidence of resistance on reactions was used by the bulls as a means of advancing prices."

"More pools are operating now than in some time, although they are not making efforts for spectacular or sensational movements. The groups are willing to accept moderate profits when obtainable."

"Several of the investment houses report that their customers are picking up stocks rather steadily. The shares are being paid for and taken out of the street. Investors who in the past purchased 100 to 200 shares are now accumulating odd lots with the idea of completing their line during any good-sized reaction which may come between now and the end of the year. They plan to enter 1932 with a good-sized long position. Sentiment continues cheerful."

CHURCH WORKER DIES

Says Canadians Oppose Anti-silver Policy of British

Washington, June 15.—World-wide monetization of silver was urged to-day by Senator King as a means of alleviating the economic depression. The United States is in a position to lead in formulating and executing a policy that will restore silver to its proper position.

He recommended the government call an international conference to study the problem despite opposition of Britain and other countries.

"The country has," he said, "more than two-fifths of all the monetary gold in the world," while the United States and France together control three-fifths of the world's ten billions of monetary gold. He argued that for this reason there "must be some change in the monetary and fiscal system of the world."

"Some of the dominions of Great Britain," he continued, "do not share the views of some of the British bankers. The people of Canada, in my opinion, do not support the views of the British government. It is certain that if a conference were called, Canada and Great Britain would attend."

Credit Reports Show Business Conditions

The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association limited for week ending June 13, 1931, is as follows:

Halifax—Wholesale and retail trade continue quiet. Collections fair to slow.

St. John—Wholesale trade continues normal and in satisfactory condition. Retail trade quite satisfactory. Collections just fair.

Montreal—A good demand is reported in wholesale country trade. Retail city trade fair, collections improved. Wholesale fair, retail much improved. Considerable activity has been noted in the building trades.

Toronto—There does not seem to have been any radical change from last week as business was more or less retarded on account of the expected budget. Nevertheless, there seems to be a greater optimism since the budget was brought down, and it is anticipated that it will have a good effect on general business.

Winnipeg—Very little change is reported in manufacturing. While some improvement is apparent in the wholesale trade, volume transacted is still below normal. Retail trade continues quite fair with improvement in some lines. All lines of collection slow.

Regina—Retail city trade slow, country fair to good. All collections slow with only installment collections coming in.

Moose Jaw—Business conditions remain unchanged. Wholesale and retail hardware quiet.

Saskatoon—Trade in country fair only. Retail trade in the city improving slightly in some lines. Collections in the country very slow; city and wholesale fair.

Calgary—Business, both wholesale and retail, continues slow. Collections in the country very slow; city and wholesale fair.

Edmonton—Wholesale groceries report business improved this week, most other lines, both wholesale and retail, quiet. Collections on past due accounts continue very difficult.

British Columbia—With the exception of the lumber industry, all lines of manufacturing are reported as being fairly satisfactory. Wholesale trade fair. Retail trade fairly good. Collections are reported generally fair and slow.

SOUTH AMERICA BOND NEWS

Furnished by C. L. H. Branson

Mexico City: Banco de Mexico, the Mexican central bank of issue, has undertaken to acquire all the gold mined by prospectors at the rich placer fields of El Tambo in state of Sinaloa. Strike at this field resulted in one of the greatest gold rushes in Mexican history.

The bank proposes to have mined immediately all metal obtained, to relieve the acute shortage of gold coin in Mexico.

Mexico City: Negotiations for a loan of more than $10,000,000 to the Mexican government by four oil companies including three American and one British company operating in Mexico, to be used for federal disbursements in arrears, due to the heavy revenue decline and for highway construction, are virtually completed.

Mexican Eagle Oil Co. (Royal Dutch-Shell) has already advanced $1,000,000. Standard Oil Co. of California is awaiting only home office confirmation on a $3,000,000 advance while Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company (Standard Oil of Indiana) and Pierce Oil Company (Standard Oil) are under stood to have reached agreement with the government for amounts not yet divulged. The loans are in the form of advance taxes and are the result of negotiations under way the past month.

This is the first financial transaction between the companies and the Mexican Government since Doherty interests advanced the Obregon administration $10,000,000 in 1923 to quell the De La Huerta revolution.

Gustavo Ramirez, owner of an association of Mexican Government bondholders who has been suing in interest of minority holders to restrain Thomas W. Lamont, as chairman, and others from selling the bonds, has been in Mexico from carrying out debt payments programme, wins important victory by Supreme Court decision.

Republic of Bolivia external bonds. Readjustment basis sought. The financial commission which came to New York to arrange with American bankers for refunding the Bolivian loans of 1922, 1927 and 1928, urged the government to give complete assurance to the bankers that it will not seek reduction of the amount or alterations of the conditions, although some are regarded as onerous. The commission feels that this is so vital to the maintenance of Bolivia's credit that, although the most convenient arrangement would have been to merge the three debts into one at lower interest, the commission advises against seeking this because of a clause in the 1922 loan contract which prohibits conversion before 1937. The commission suggests that the government inform the bankers of its own minimum needs for administration, so that its capacity to pay may be gauged, and tentatively proposes a budgeting of the national income which would devote 60 per cent to service on the foreign debt. Interest was defaulted on January, March, April and May first this year. Prospects indicate a prolonged period of uncertainty and continued low price level for the bonds.

GOLD STAMPEDEERS NEED MICROSCOPE

Hon. W. C. Shelly Finds New Cariboo Rush Unwarranted, But Miles Staked

Quebec, June 15.—There is nothing there to warrant people going in," declared Hon. W. C. Shelly, who arrived here from Prince George after flying to the reported gold strike on Rainbow Creek, in northern British Columbia.

"Rainbow Creek is staked for twenty miles," Mr. Shelly declared, "and there is nothing to warrant it. Two men shovelling at the mouth of the creek made about $7 per hour after two days of preparatory work."

"Two claims are making a fairly good showing, but the rest of the country, in my opinion, is unsuited, either for dredging, because of huge boulders, or for hydraulic working, because of the insufficient grade."

"The gold is fine," Mr. Shelly added. "In fact, many of the prospectors on Rainbow use a magnifying glass to find colors in the pan. The material on Rainbow Creek consists mostly of glacial drift, and if there is any gold found, it will be in patches, in my opinion," concluded Mr. Shelly.

W. N. U. SERVICE

Aggy looked at him without speaking, and left for the kitchen. That Rob, after all these years, had accepted her and her problems, including Sir George, without either astonishment or hesitation, did not seem to her remarkable. It was what she had expected. Would she not have done the same thing for Rob?

Some twenty odd minutes later she reappeared, carrying a tray on which stood, deliciously browned, jam, cake and tea. She was invitingly spread forth, and went toward the library. Evidently Sir George had assisted Macbeth to get there, for she could hear the two men talking.

Both looked up at her, and Sir George sprang to clear a place on the table and take the tray from her.

"You should have called me, Aggy," he said reproachfully.

"You're a wonder, Aggy," declared her brother, looking at the toast. "I've been offering Sir George the post of secretary, private secretary, a sort of liaison officer between me, in my crippled state here, and my New York office. I have a secretary there, but I want him at the office. I need a man who can go to the city and get things done for me and at the same time take a look outside at the various jobs, and come here and give me an idea as to whether my plans are being carried out or not."

Lady Sandison looked at him and nodded approval. "You have done well to take Sir George here. Have a bit of toast, Rob, and let me put jam on it. It will set you up. And to think you two have planned it out all yourselves, without any help!" She looked at them both admiringly.

Sir George returned the look warily. He knew his Aggy of old, but her brother smiled broadly, warning him to find how much he liked Aggy again. Despite her handicaps—poverty, her lack of family—had she not contrived to get him, where Robert Macbeth might think that titles meant nothing to him, but Aggy's title and Sir George's presence in his house were a source of pride.

"While we're sipping our tea," said Lady Sandison, comfortably aware that Sir George was admiring her, "you'll maybe be able to tell me, Rob, where Sir George will hide, and how late does your daughter generally stay out when there's dinner to get and home to get to?"

Robert Macbeth looked worried. "She ought to be home. We quarrelled, of course, this morning, but I hardly thought she'd leave me alone so long."

"Something by ordinary means," declared Aggy. "Ever since she had glimpsed Robert this morning, she had had her mind made up about that young lady, but she was not telling Robert's father. 'Don't put yourself out, Rob. She's no run away. She'll be home soon.'"

"Oh, do you think so, Aggy? You're a great comfort, then he turned, to Sir George. 'I'd like you to stay here, Sir George, if it suits you. It will be best for me, and there's plenty of room.'"

Sir George, looking like an embarrassed Apollo, thanked him. He was thinking rapidly that never had his luck been greater than now that Aggy had taken the helm.

"Afore your daughter gets back," resumed Aggy, watching first one then the other, but evidently satisfied in her own mind that they were all getting along nicely, "are we to use our titles here, or put them by, as you might say, until we go home again?"

Robert Macbeth looked puzzled. He had forgotten that Robert knew nothing about this aunt, except that she was a poor and obstinate Scotch woman, who foolishly refused the money he had offered. How would she take this new element he was introducing into his home?

Robert saw her aunt's real worth or only her odd ways and clothes and queer modes of expression?

"If I could only keep it from her," muttered Robert Macbeth, "I might try it as an experiment."

"I wouldn't," declared Sir George.

quickly. "It's hardly fair. If we're to be in the house, she should know all about us. I think, sir."

"It would be a grand lesson to her if we kept it from her," declared her Aunt Aggy.

"Roberta isn't that kind," retorted her father indignantly. "She's not a snob. She's just a naughty child."

Sir George put up his hand for silence and rose, but before he could speak the door was flung open.

"Hello, dad!" Roberta called. "What's happened? No lights in the garage, no sign of Willy. No one in the kitchen. Where are the maids?"

"They went away with Willy, as soon as your back was turned," her father told her. "Didn't you expect it?"

"I did not." The flippant Roberta's eyes rested for just a moment on the conspicuously handsome young man who happened to be standing near her father's chair. She bent over her father and said in a voice that though low, reached Sir George. "What's Phoebe Apollo, or is it Adonis, doing here?"

Then, before her father could prevent her, she turned to Sir George. "It isn't, of course, included in the regular duties of a butler but still in an emergency—if you would put my car in the garage for me—"

Lady Sandison took a quick step forward, but Sir George was before her. "Delighted to be of use," he said, and crossed the room toward the door.

"Glad you take pleasure in your work," Roberta called in low velvet voice, that played havoc with most men, "helping him as he reaches the door."

"In this place you will find it includes a little of everything, out-door and indoors, but we pay well. Have you arranged the terms, father?"

"My dear," said Robert Macbeth quietly, wondering what effect this would have on the girl, "this gentleman is my private secretary and his salary will hardly interest you."

"Private secretary!" repeated Roberta, the blood mounting to her cheeks. Sir George looked at the receding back of the man whom she had so cavalierly set to work.

"Well, I can apologize later, if necessary," said Sir George. "Is that the best you can do?"

Quickly Robert Macbeth spoke, with an appealing look at Aggy. "This is my sister, your Aunt Aggy. She has kindly consented to help me out. Since you so strongly object to the difficulties of housekeeping, I've installed her as housekeeper."

"Aunt—Aunt Aggy?" Roberta, who had been free all her life from the encumbrance of relatives, stared at this aunt who had come from across the seas unbidden, unannounced.

"How do you do, my dear?" said Lady Sandison, and she stepped forward.

Roberta drew back a little, her eyes sparkling angrily. She gave her father a questioning look to her aunt. Lady Sandison smiled at her.

"Rob's my brother and your father so we'll no quarrel, but we'll not be tyrannized over neither."

"Let's get this straight," Roberta said. "Are you on my side or father's?"

"Both, and if you'll follow my advice you'll give in to him. Humour him and he's yours, and surely Rob's very easy to humor. You made a mistake in managing him to-day. You told him what you were going to do before you did it."

Roberta turned on her angrily. She was not to be so easily managed. "If you take my place here, you take my place without any aid of mine."

"He's sure to be angry," she said. "It's war is it?"

Roberta nodded. "Well, the sooner that's understood the better. We'll just get the supper. Show me where the potatoes are, Roberta, and keep a civil tongue in your head. You're playing right into Rob's hands and mine."

Roberta considered herself a match for any woman. She fired her first shot.

The Ideal Husband or Wife Is Always the One We Didn't Marry—If We Could Only Realize That Our Next Partner Would Average Up About Like Our Last, Divorce Would Be a Thing of the Past

THE MUCH-MARRIED Peggy Joyce was recently asked by an interviewer which of her numerous husbands was her favorite one. To which she responded: "My next. Always my next one."

In this cryptic utterance of a woman who believes that if at first you don't succeed in getting the sort of husband you want, try again, we have not only an expression of incomparable optimism, but the real explanation of the why of divorce.

For the only ideal husbands and wives are those we did not marry, and whom we delude ourselves into thinking we may yet win if we take another chance in the matrimonial lottery.

Dr. Johnson defined a second marriage as the final triumph of hope over experience, and it is still cynicism and amusingly true that no matter how disappointed men and women have been in their previous husbands and wives, they always believe that their next ones are going to be all that their imaginations crave and their hearts desire.

John looks at Mary, grown middle-aged and stout and stodgy and whose conversational repertoire he knows by heart, and thinks that if he had another wife she would be perpetually young and beautiful and miraculously clothed in chiffons that never cost a cent, and that she would keep him all pepped up and feeling like a young and ardent lover, and that she would never run up any bills or be sick or have her relatives visit her or nag him about money, and that she would realize that a man can't always be tied to his own fireside, and that he needed diversion outside of the home.

And Mary, beholding her John, sees a tubby little man who is growing bald, and who is grumpy and grouchy and dangerous to speak to when the stock market sags, and who takes her for granted and never pays her a compliment or gives her a kiss that isn't a peck of duty with no more warmth to it than a cold flapjack.

And she thinks that if she had another husband he would look like a motion-picture sheik, and that he would keep her thrilled with his love-making, and that he would lavish money upon her and entreat her to buy herself strings of pearls and Paris clothes, and that nothing would ever peeve him, and that he would never look at another woman, and that he would always want to do just exactly what she wanted to.

Of course, no human being possesses the aggregation of charms and virtues of the man or woman we didn't marry, but, alas, a great many credulous men and women believe in this paragon of perfection as children do in Santa Claus. Worse still, they go in search of their ideal and are always thinking they have discovered him or her in some mysterious stranger.

This discontent with their mates, for whatever John and Mary's faults, they likewise have their good points, could be borne with philosophy except that the discontented husbands and wives are victims of the delusion that if they swap partners they are certain to profit by the trade and get something better than they have. That, as Miss Joyce says, their next husbands and wives are bound to be their favorite ones. That is why the burnt matrimonial child not only doesn't dread the fire, but rushes right back into it.

One would think that those who have found marriage intolerable, who have known the torture that only husbands and wives can inflict upon each other, would no more venture into marriage a second time than a soul that has won its way out of purgatory would voluntarily descend again into the rept, but such is not the case. Divorced people nearly always marry again. Often within an hour of the time they have regained their freedom, they have forfeited their liberty again to some unknown man or woman, strong in the belief that he or she is going to be the wife or husband of their dreams.

Occasionally this hope is realized. Often it is not, and the second or third or fourth marriage is just as much a disappointment as the first. It is only exchanging one set of faults and peculiarities for another, and one husband or wife is as hard to live with as another.

John may not have had a thrilling line of conversation, but he was good-natured and cheerful and amiable, while James is a wit but given to sulking and to making wisecracks at his wife's expense. Thomas may have been a club, as love-making, but he was a wizard at money getting, while Ralph holds his wife's hands and tells her how beautiful she is, but lets her work to support him.

Sally was no treat to the eyes, but she was a grand cook, while Sadie looked like a fashion plate and sets her husband down to a dinner that would kill an ostrich. Lucille was no vamp, but she was thrifty and economical and a good working partner, while Estelle keeps her husband on his tiptoes, and head and ears in debt by her extravagance.

And so it goes, and the consensus of the experience of the divorced is that there isn't much choice among husbands and wives as far as performances go, and that your next husband and wife will average up about like your former one did. So you had as well stay married and save the expense of a divorce.

For in marriage, as in all else, man never is, but always to be blessed, as the poet puts it.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Our Own Safety Week

From time to time, "weeks" of various kinds are proclaimed—for example, "Children's Book Week" or "Safety Week."

It seems to me that we members of the Corner family might well have a safety week of our very own.

Boys and girls and grown folk who read the Corner are special friends of mine, and I take a keen interest in their welfare and safety.

Dr. S. A. Barnett, a scientist who spent several months in the wilds of Africa, said upon his return:

"The city streets are more dangerous than the jungles of Africa." "It is may sound strange to hear that more danger lurks on our streets than in the African jungles; but there is reason for the statement. Wild animals may kill a few hundred persons in a year, but automobiles kill thousands and thousands."

A few weeks ago, this item appeared in newspapers:

"Child fatalities from auto accidents have been reduced in Massachusetts in the last three years. In 1929, 206 children were killed; in 1929, 197, and last year, 161."

That marks an improvement, but Massachusetts has no reason to feel satisfied. For 192 children were killed by autos in a single year, and many others injured, is said indeed.

Careless motorists must be blamed for part of the toll. Many drivers speed so fast through city streets that they cannot control their cars when sudden danger arises of running someone down.

Another cause is that children may forget themselves and run in front of an auto. Boys playing "catch" and dash into the street after the ball without looking to see whether the path is clear. If you play ball beside a street, always look to see whether autos are coming before you race for

Think of autos first, the baseball afterward!

A ball which has rolled into dangerous ground. Autos will seldom do damage to a ball, but they might do great damage to you!

(Scrapbook) club members may make a new section in their looseleaf scrapbooks with the title "Safety."

To-morrow—Avoiding Falls.

CATTLE EXPORT

Ottawa, June 15.—Export of cattle to Great Britain, at present the sole outside market for the Canadian surplus, continues at the full capacity of shipping space available. This week 333 head were loaded on the Manchester Producer and six head on the St. Catharines. The British market for Dominion cattle continues at unchanged prices, says a report issued by the Dominion Livestock branch of the Agriculture Department.

A tool handle with a vacuum grip has been put on the market.

Newfoundland Sealing Industry Interesting

Fishery Divided Into Two Branches, Fur Seal and Hair Seal; Earliest Record of Sealing Dates From 1763; Sailing Day Always a Gala One.

St. John's, Nfld., June 15.—For the years the hunting of seals off the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador has been carried on as an industry. Outside of this "oldest colony" and other sealing districts, little is generally known concerning the fishery. Inland newspaper readers who scanned accounts of the Viking disaster last March were probably puzzled by references to "harpe," "white costs," and "hoods."

Newfoundland and in Cabot Strait. Most numerous of the several species of hair seal are the "harpe" or "saddle-back" and the "hood" or "bladder nose." The "harpe" is so named from a broad lunette series of dark spots on its back, resembling an ancient Irish harp. Its length when full grown is about five feet and weight from 250 to 400 pounds. The male "hood" seal has a sack formation in the head that may be extended at will to cover the face and afford protection in battle. A mature "hood" weighs from 400 to 700 pounds.

Approximately 800,000 white baby seals are born in mid-Atlantic every year. During the first six weeks of life they accumulate a coat from two to three inches thick, a weight of seventy-five pounds or more, and are known as "white costs."

Once on the ice, the seals are at the mercy of winds and currents. If easterly winds prevail late in February, they will be found in the vicinity of Quirpon, or in White Bay. Frequently the main body of seals is split, a portion going through the Strait of Belle Isle into the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Whelping time is generally early in March. Two weeks later the seals are usually from thirty to seventy-five miles northeast of the Funk Islands, located thirty-five miles east of Cape Fogo. By the end of March they may be seen from 100 to 150 miles south-east of Cape Bonaville. During April they continue south, join the "red-liners" and continue northwest reaching Cape Charles on southern Labrador by the first of May, they abandon the ice floe and proceed into Beaufin Bay. During June, July and August, they are in the vicinity of Cumberland Sound, leaving about the middle of September when driven out to the southeast by ice.

An interesting feature of the seal fishery is the system of profit-sharing in the proceeds of the voyage. The owner of a steamer takes two-thirds and the crew one-third of the value of the catch. A good season means from $50.00 to $150.00 for each man.

Seal hunters find the industry a change from the monotony of home life. An old saying in Newfoundland is that "a man will go for seals where a woman won't draw him," and the hardy fisher-folk look upon the annual seal hunt as a holiday.

Captain William Kean, secured 1,340 seals, and the steamer Greyhound, Captain Alex. Graham, landed 3,000 pelts. Few sailing vessels have been included in the fleets of recent years. This year nine steamships carrying 1,470 men fitted out from St. John's. Three auxiliary schooners also were employed. For the first time in the history of the industry a foreign vessel, the Belgian steamer Lestrin, engaged in the hunt.

The day designated for the sailing of the fleet is always a gala one in St. John's, from which port the greatest number of the steamers sail. Each carries a crew of from 135 to 200 men who, when the ice fields are reached, land on the ice in parties with a master watch in charge, and armed with staves about seven feet long known as "bats" somewhat similar to an ordinary boat-hook.

Firearms are not used in killing the seals on the ice, only when they are in the water. A slight blow on the side of the head with the "bat" or a kick from a heavy boot will kill a "white-cost."
